Asst. superintendent named in 5-0 vote

By Neil Fater

After trolling the assistant superintendent waters on his own, Dick Neal, superintendent, told the School Committee the approved Mr. Neal's recommendation Tuesday night and made Ms. McGrath the new assistant superintendent with a 5-0 vote, though there were some slight reservations.

Lloyd Willey, committee member, said he was concerned that Ms. McGrath had consolidated curriculum levels in the past. "That's not the charge that she's coming onboard here" to accomplish, said Mr. Willey.

"That's not a direction that I

Rep. Coon looking to shrink government and the sales tax

By Don Staruk

One of state Rep. Gary Coon's greatest achievements this year has been to rein in unchecked growth, not of state government, but on a personal level.

"Early this year I got up to 212 pounds," the 6-foot 2-inch representative said this week.

Interview with Andover's state representative

So he started going to the gym three days a week, playing tennis Sunday mornings and getting onto the volleyball court one night a week.

"(Thanks to) that and being a little more conscious of the ice cream sundaes, I've lost 22 pounds."

Rep. Coon, 31, Republican representative for the 17th Essex District, which includes Andover and part of South Lawrence, talked with the Townsmen at his district office at 89 N. Main St. Monday. After the meeting he stopped at Perfectos Muffins and Bagels next door to try a new coffee flavor - butterscotch sundae coffee.

"That's the closest I'm going to get to a butterscotch sundae this week," he said.

Downsizing government

With his own girth in check, one of the most important issues coming up for Rep. Coon is the effort to restructure and downsize state government, something the Legislature forced on the governor, he said.

Andover High and South School may not be ready by Sept. 7

By Neil Fater

Some School Building Committee members are maintaining that all schools will open on time, but Dick Neal, superintendent, has serious concerns that both South Elementary and Andover High School will not be ready by the first day of school.

Contractors were supposed to have both schools ready for teachers Sept. 5 and for students Sept. 7. But after meeting with the South architect and project manager, Mr.

Neal told the School Committee Tuesday night, "It appears from the contractor's point of view that it would be a huge strain to have (South) School ready for the teachers by Sept. 5." Mr. Neal said South may open to students Monday, Sept. 11.

As far as the High School is concerned, Mr. Neal said a lot of work needs to be done before students can enter the building.

"First of all they need an entrance," he

Title 5:

Some septic rules change, some remain the same

By Alix Driscoll

By executive order, Gov. William Weld recently watered down the state's new septic system regulations, commonly referred to as Title 5. The governor ordered the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection to make 19 modifications to the state rules, which were enacted March 31. The changes went into effect immediately.

Among the most important ramifications for Andover homeowners is the extension of the length of time that an inspection is valid. It has been extended from nine months to two years, or three years if the system has been pumped annually. In addition, homeowners will have up to two years to repair failed systems, rather than one year. This will help with the often-expressed concern of some local homeowners and realtors about

Visitor: Brits to take Andover in soccer tourney

By Don Staruk

Mike Grey, 13, of Andover, England, is one of the roughly 350 Brits planning to come to Andover, Mass., next year to take on their American counterparts in a few games of soccer. He was in town last week visiting Deputy Fire Chief Chuck Murnane and his family and scouting the competition. And he gave fair warning to his opponents.

"We're not coming here to lose, you know," he said.

Mike is a member of the New Street Youth Soccer club for kids 8-18 years old. In addition to teams from each of those age groups, the Brits also will bring over a men's team and a women's team to take on their counterparts here. Some of the English group will come earlier, in May or June, and take part in some of the other festivities related to the 350th anniversary celebration.

The soccer games between the two Andovers will take place Labor Day 1996 as part of the year-long 350th anniversary celebration commemorating the founding of Andover, Mass. Mr. Murnane is a member of the 350th Anniversary Celebration Committee working on events for youths. He and his son, Charles III, 14, visited Andover, England, recently to help the Brits plan their trip and to do some scouting of their own. Mike Grey was in the states for a two-and-a-half-week visit with cousins in Concord, Mass., and was scheduled to leave for home today, Thursday. He visited with the Murnanes for a few days last weekend.

It was his second visit to this country. His other trip was to Disneyworld. The thing he noticed most here was "pizza - the price of pizza."

Pizza is four times as expensive in England, he said.

"And the weather."

Although England has had a relatively dry summer this year, it is usually very rainy and rarely gets the repeated dry sunny days New England has had the past few weeks.

Another big difference in England is the soccer, it's a game for fun, Mike said. "But if you lose, after the game you won't have much fun."

"It's a lot more serious in England," he said. "In England, it's a way of life."

In England, his team plays 40 games compared to eight played here. Mike plays three or four games a week - either for his club, his district, or his school - so that he trains or plays six days a week, September through June.

"It's a full-time hobby," he said.

The result is that the skill level is much greater in each age group in England than for the same age kids here. And that will show up in the games next year, Mike said.

"The English predict that it will be, like, a walkover," he said.

The ConsCom watches over Jenkins wetlands

By Alix Driscoll

At its meeting Tuesday, Aug. 8, the Conservation Commission continued its hearing to verify the wetlands boundaries on the Jenkins property, a 105-acre parcel located on Sunset Rock Road, Ballardvale Road and Arcadia Road.

In addition, the commission approved the revised wetland boundary map for the Stirling Street and Haverhill Street areas on the Champy property, and voted to close the hearing on this issue.

Conservation overseers

The ConsCom appointed more than 30 conservation overseers to watch over parcels of town-owned land.

The commission is actively seeking more overseers, according to Bob Pustell, ConsCom chairman. More than 60 pieces of municipal land are without guardians. An overseer has similar responsibilities as an AVIS warden, he said.

These are the town properties that have overseers and the townspeople who watch over them:

the problem of inspecting and repairing systems during the winter.

Already existing systems that are within 50 feet of surface non-drinking water will no longer automatically fail inspection. Under the March 31 rules, these cases would have required a variance by the Board of Health. Now they or repaired before March 31, 1995.

Homeowners may have voluntary inspections that are not reported to the local board of health.

New rules urge local boards of health to take into account not only the conditions of the site but also the economic feasibility of upgrading.

town's drinking water, Haggetts Pond and Fish Brook, and 75 feet from other bodies of water or wetlands, according to Mr. Penney.

These regulations concerning new construction have been in effect since 1980 and are more stringent than what the state has required or now requires. Andover's rules have stood the test of time, said Mr. Penney.

Tax credits may come

In addition to making immediate revisions to the regulations, the governor filed legislation to provide tax credits of up to $2,500 for property owners faced with replacement or upgrading of their systems. The administration also filed a bill to create a statewide uniform code for septic systems in existing homes.

Already existing systems that are within 50 feet of surface non-drinking water will no longer automatically fail the inspection.

will pass if the rest of the inspection is satisfactory, said Everett Penney, Andover director of public health.

Other highlights of the new rules

The new regulations have important ramifications for owners of existing septic systems. The absolute requirement to have a septic system inspected when a house is sold, enlarged or changed in use is modified.

No inspection is required where a system has been approved by a local board of health within two years. This includes septic systems built, upgraded and refinancing of a house no longer will require an inspection.

The new modifications allow a "conditional-pass" category, which allows a septic system with minor technical difficulties to "pass" inspection, allowing home sales to go forward, pending repairs.

But new building is different

On the other hand, Andover is retaining its 15-year-old local regulations regarding the siting of new septic systems. New systems must be and will continue to be 100 feet away from the

Officials give hints on caring for your septic system

By Alix Driscoll

Conserving water and pumping a septic tank regularly are the two most important ways to extend the life of a septic system, according to Neil Bateson, of Bateson Enterprises Inc. His firm inspects and pumps out septic systems.

Conserving water prevents a system from becoming overloaded and is environmentally wise, he said.

Both the state and town require septic systems to be pumped out every three years, said Everett Penney, Andover director of public health.

But Mr. Bateson recommends pumping every year, which costs an average of $200. That way pumpers can detect potential problems during routine maintenance.

The average septic system should last 15 to 20 years with water conservation and yearly pumping, said officials. However, it is not uncommon in Andover to find a well-cared-for system lasting 30 to 40 years, according to Mr. Bateson.

Plan for Collins Center includes art academy

By Neil Fater

The Collins Center will never host the likes of David Copperfield again, but during the next four years it may slowly capture some new magic.

That's if all goes according to the four-year plan developed by Ellen Kraft Spear, the consultant hired by the School Committee to advise it on how to improve the center's usage.

During the past few years, the Collins Center has been used mostly for High School functions and occasional dance recitals.

Ms. Spear's plan calls for a slow increase in the number of productions during the first two years, and then the creation of an arts academy in the third year.

Although the Collins Center should host more shows, it won't show a profit during the four-year period.

"During (the four years) some of the fundamental management and physical-planning issues may be addressed, outreach to the arts community can be accomplished, a new opportunity for service to youth instituted and audience can be built in a planned fashion," Ms. Spear wrote in her final report.

Ms. Spear developed her plan around the committee's guidelines regarding how the center should be used. Members said:

- The center's chief purpose is to serve as Andover High School's auditorium;
- Any other use will "enrich and entertain the larger community"; and
- Revenue received from these Collins Center functions will help pay for the center's operating and capital expenses.

The School Committee discussed Ms. Spear's final plan Tuesday evening, but did not vote on it. Gail Zeman, business manager, said if the plan is approved it may not be implemented until the fall of 1996 because of construction around the school.

The plan requires hiring a part-time Collins Center manager to oversee the facility. This will take away from school officials the responsibility for renting the center.

"The responsibility for the center isn't easily incorporated into existing job types, or parceled out among a number of people," said Ms. Spear's report. The part-time position will become full time in the plan's third year, when the arts academy gets rolling.

During the first year the manager will lay the groundwork for maintaining and renting the center, creating a budget and forming a volunteer network.

During the second year rentals will increase slightly and the manager will prepare for the following year's kick-off of the arts academy.

The third year is the crucial year as the manager becomes a full-time member of the school workforce and the arts academy gets off the ground. The arts academy will use smaller rooms in the center to offer arts classes to Andover residents. These classes are expected to bring in money for the budget.

During the fourth year, the manager will evaluate the programs and plan for the future, according to the plan.

COMFORT

The winter was long and hard and our son Alex had a sore throat it seemed all through the season. At our last visit to the pediatrician, the doctor suggested a tonsillectomy. She made arrangements for the Day Surgery team at Lawrence General to do the procedure. Off we went on a bright and sunny Tuesday morning in early spring. The staff made Alex feel special. They understood that while this might be one of hundreds of tonsillectomies they'd do this year, it was the only one our son was going to have. And the fact that he'd be in and out in one day made it so much easier on him and on us.

RESPECT

The doctors and nurses explained everything to us. I was especially impressed with the way they spoke directly to Alex. Being treated that way really seemed to calm him. But what mattered most was the way they treated our family. They used a smile as well as they used their high-tech surgical equipment, and it sure worked for us.

BUSINESS

Limoges, gifts opens here

By Alix Driscoll

Debby DuBay has staged quite a career change. On July 1, Ms. DuBay swapped her wings as a captain in the United States Air Force for a role as proprietor of Limoges Gifts & Antiques shop. She is now selling her internationally gathered collection of Victorian furniture and fine china at her antique shop at 20 Post Office Ave.

During tours of duty to Korea, Alaska, Texas and Montana, and frequent buying trips to Paris and Limoges workshops in France, she collected Victoriana.

"I took my passion and turned it into a business," she said.

Ms. DuBay specializes in Limoges tea services, Nippon porcelain and miniature china boxes, and oak furniture that sets off the china splendidly.

In line with her tea theme, she offers a collection of tea accessories, including antique linens, marble-topped tea tables, tea carts, preserves and dried-flower arrangements.

Drawing upon her skill of organizing special events for VIP visitors to the Boston area when she was the chief of protocol at Hanscom Air Force Base in Bedford, Ms. DuBay offers to cater a Victorian high tea to celebrate an engagement, birthday or other noteworthy event.

She says she will consult with homeowners who have inherited family treasures and will search for special Victorian pieces.

The store is open Tuesday-Saturday, 10-5, and Thursday until 7:30 p.m.

Hunneman-Coldwell moves from Park Street to Elm St.

Hunneman & Company-Coldwell Banker has moved its Andover office from 6 Park St. to an antique home located at 28 Elm St. The new office enjoys greater visibility and provides more convenient parking for customers, said personnel there.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for our company. We are moving into a home with a rich history," said Pat Gill, interim office manager and executive vice president, Hunneman & Company Coldwell Banker. The Hunneman office had been located on Park Street for 13 years.

The 28 Elm St. location was built circa 1820. At the turn of the century, it was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Tuttle. The Tuttle's owned and operated the Andover and Boston Express, which transported people and goods between the two communities.

Gerald Mulligan elected chairman of Savings Bank Life Insurance Co.

The Savings Bank Life Insurance Co. of Massachusetts (SBLI) has announced that Gerald T. Mulligan, president and chief executive officer of Andover Bank and a former Massachusetts banking commissioner, has been elected chairman of its board of directors.

"We are indeed fortunate to have an individual of Gerry's caliber to lead SBLI's board," said company president Robert Sheridan. "His experience and knowledge will be extremely valuable as SBLI pursues its mission of making high-quality, low-cost life insurance available to consumers."

The Savings Bank Life Insurance Co. of Massachusetts was founded in 1907 by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis. It currently sells life insurance products through 135 financial institutions and a home-office sales staff in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Zoning board to deny condo bid for Poor Street

The Zoning Board of Appeals voted unanimously Saturday, Aug. 12, against issuing the special permit that would have turned a circa-1820 home at 66 Poor St. into an eight-unit condominium project.

After the public hearing last Thursday and a site visit, the board needed only about 10 minutes of deliberation to make the decision.

High among board members' concerns for the property was the proposed density. Two wings would have been added to the existing home, putting the eight units on roughly three-quarters of an acre of land.

The 5-0 decision is the board's informal "straw vote," according to board members. The board's final, binding, decision will be filed within 90 days.

350 want to preserve the Den Rock property

By Joan Brown

Hoping to preserve an industrially-zoned property near Den Rock Park, the Andover Residents for Conservation submitted a petition with the signatures of more than 350 residents to town officials Monday.

"Conservation of the Champy property as green space would benefit the people of Andover," stated Brendan Dugan, ARC spokesman. "(It) would compliment efforts to enhance the natural beauty of Den Rock Park in Lawrence, and would serve to protect the Shawsheen River flowing through both towns."

Engineers for Rose Champy - owner of the 76-acre property that abuts Den Rock Park in Lawrence - withdrew plans for an industrial park at the site discuss the fate of the property. "Ultimately, the selectmen did not want me to pursue a town purchase of the property and did not want to acquire the or recreational use.

About $335,000 is owed to the town in back taxes on the property. Another $600,000 is owed to the Internal Revenue Service and $130,000 to Arbor Associates, a real estate agency.

The ARC has asked to discuss the issue at a coming Board of Selectmen meeting. The group will probably be on the agenda for a September meeting, according to Mr. Stapczynski.

"Our goal for the land in question is complete, managed conservation for recreational purposes," stated Mr. Dugan. "We will participate, or lead in this goal."

'Our goal for the land in question is complete, managed conservation for recreational purposes.'

June 27, to allow town officials time to investigate alternatives for the property.

Selectmen met several times in executive session during the summer to parcel through back taxes," Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said Wednesday morning. He said another group could still step forward to acquire the property for conservation

AVOIDING THE "FOR SALE BY OWNER" BLUES

Selling a house seems pretty simple, so you have decided to try the "do it yourself" approach. You know how much you want to charge for the house, and you call your local newspaper to run a "For Sale By Owner" ad in the weekend classifieds. Then you sit back and wait for buyers to materialize.

What happens next? You start getting calls right away, but not from buyers. You find yourself inundated with pesky Realtors prospecting for business. Some may be looking for a home for themselves. Others say they have buyers. Still others simply want to have a conversation about the possibility of having them professionally market your home. Placing a "For Sale By Owner" ad is a great way to find a terrific agent. When one of our people calls, we suggest that you talk to them. Even if you think you are committed to selling on your own, you may learn a lot during your meeting that could help you do just that. If you do throw in the towel (and 94% of FSBO's eventually do), you will have met several good agents and may choose to list with the best one!

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

Town helps Harding Street man save trees

By Don Staruk

Local officials this week came to the rescue of a Harding Street resident, or more accurately, to the rescue of his trees.

"It's a story of how government didn't live up to its promises," Magid Mazen, of 19 Harding St., said Tuesday.

The story began two years ago when selectmen approved the Massachusetts Highway Department project to replace the Harding Street bridge over the railroad tracks. The bridge is in need of replacement and the state plans to raise and widen it while replacing the old wooden decking with a new steel and concrete structure. In approving the project, selectmen directed Mass Highway officials to be sensitive to residents' concerns as they proceeded with the work.

Mr. Mazen's property is adjacent to the bridge and has several trees that serve as a buffer between his house and the train tracks. After receiving selectmen's approval, Mass. Highway agreed to cut only two of Mr. Mazen's trees, and arranged to pay compensation of $2,500.

Two years went by and nothing else happened. Then one morning in May of this year, Mr. Mazen and his wife, Michelle, awoke to find 15 of their trees marked with tape. They were told all 15 would be taken down.

Mr. Mazen wrote a letter to Sherman Eidelman, Mass. Highway district director, reminding him of the agreement to cut just two trees. He was told his concerns would be taken into consideration and that someone would get back to him.

Two-and-a-half months went by and Mr. Mazen hadn't heard a word. Then about two weeks ago, he read a news report quoting Ken Ravioli, another Mass. Highway district official, saying that the state had to heed the concerns of residents, including Mr. Mazen's. Mr. Ravioli then met with Mr. Mazen and the two discussed the possibility of the state cutting 12 trees and replacing them with a stone wall and several smaller trees to recreate at least part of the buffer from the train tracks. Mr. Ravioli left to discuss the proposal with his boss and said he would get back to Mr. Mazen.

Mr. Mazen never heard back from Mr. Ravioli. Last Friday Mr. Mazen saw three men out in his front yard and when he went to talk to them he was told they would be coming back Monday to cut 12 of his trees. He asked them if they had any official notice or agreement as to what work they would do or what his compensation would be. They didn't, according to Mr. Mazen. They told him they would be there Monday to cut the trees and that there was nothing he could do about it, he said.

Working to save the trees

He found Mr. Ravioli had gone on vacation, but said he learned from one of the men in his front yard who worked for Mr. Ravioli that the proposal to build a wall had been rejected.

Mr. Mazen appealed to Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, and Sen. John O'Brien Jr., D-Andover, to get involved and help him save his trees. The town manager's office sent a memo to the Mass. Highway commissioner reminding him of the need to heed neighbor's and selectmen's concerns, and requesting a postponement of the tree cutting. Sen. O'Brien's office also called Mass. Highway and Mass. Highway agreed to a one-day postponement of the tree cutting, and it was rescheduled for Tuesday of this week.

On Monday, Mr. Mazen involved Larry Larsen, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, and by day's end the town manager's office issued a cease-and-desist order to the state halting the project for 48 hours or until a negotiated settlement could be reached with the Mazens.

Former Lawrence Mayor Kevin Sullivan, now associate commissioner of the MHD, visited Mr. Mazen at his home Monday night and, after a two-hour meeting, ordered a halt to the bridge project until an agreement can be worked out with Mr. Mazen regarding the trees.

"He was very congenial and understanding," Mr. Mazen said of Mr. Sullivan.

On Tuesday, due to what Mr. Mazen said was a lack of communication, a work crew showed up at the Mazens' house to take down the trees. The police and Mr. Sullivan were called and Mr. Sullivan told the engineers to postpone the work until further notice.

Chrysa Meyers, spokesperson for MHD, said Tuesday the state would be looking at whether it really needs to take more than the two trees Mr. Mazen had initially agreed to give up, and if so, what additional compensation, monetary or in the form of a substitute barrier, it could offer Mr. Mazen.

Brian Moore, town engineer, said this week that the state planned to close the Harding Street bridge Monday, Aug. 21, to begin disassembling the old wooden structure. Ms. Meyers said the tree negotiations might delay the closing a few days, but that the state hoped to resolve the problem by the end of this week so that work could resume. Once the old bridge is closed, it may be a year before the new bridge is completed and opened to traffic.

Mr. Mazen couldn't say enough about the support he received from Dr. Larsen, Mr. Stapczynski, Sen. O'Brien and Bob Ford, an intern in the town manager's office.

"The whole process of getting the town to stand by its own citizens is a good story," Mr. Mazen said.

High-tech is staging big comeback

KEN JOHNSON Hitting Home

Digital posted its first annual profit in five years. Wang is earning money, landing new contracts and waiting to reap the benefits of its new deal with Microsoft.

Lotus, after a financially troubled quarter, is now safely in the moneyed hands of IBM.

After five years of lost promise and lost jobs, high-tech is staging a strong comeback. Best of all, the industry will likely begin creating, rather than eliminating, jobs again.

"A number of things are going on," said Scott McCready, computer industry analyst with International Data Group of Framingham.

 "As organizations become more distributed the need for computer power increases. Three local companies are poised to take advantage of these changes."

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, C.L.U., ChFC

PROVIDE YOUR OWN DISABILITY PROTECTION

Employees have every reason to find out if their employers offer disability insurance benefits. The statistics speak for themselves. Studies indicate that workers in their 40's are three to four times more likely to become disabled before they reach age 65 than they are to die before then. As for 30-year-olds, they have a 50 percent chance of becoming disabled for more than three months before the age of 65. However, even though employees may receive employer-provided disability benefits, they may not be adequate. Such plans are likely to provide only a portion of an employee's salary for a limited duration. In addition, whereas employer-provided benefits are taxable, benefits that employees provide for themselves are not always fully taxed. Many times a combination of company provided and employee-provided disability benefits is the most effective way to provide full income protection. Let's plan the right strategy for you.

At BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES, we offer financial services in the areas of investments, pension and retirement, life insurance and estate planning, group benefits, and fee-based financial planning. If you have any questions or would like to schedule an appointment, please call us at 475-9212. Our office here in Andover is located at 10 Essex Street. We also have an office at 1100 N. Washington Street in Boston (617) 523-4500. I am a Chartered Financial Consultant, and written and verbal references are available upon request.

HINT: It is generally a good idea to purchase enough disability insurance to replace 60 to 70 percent of an employee's annual income. The key question is whether this will be on an "after-tax" or "before-tax" basis.

ANDOVER KIDS ENJOY A TEDDY BEAR PICNIC

DCS has sponsored a variety of theme day activities in The Park for children ages 1-6 this summer, including a Teddy Bear picnic held Thursday, Aug. 3. Children brought their favorite Teddies and joined in the fun. Storytime, Teddy Bear show-and-tell, music and crafts were just some of the Teddy Bear activities taking place in The Park.

Looking for ways to finance college? MassPLAN funds are still available

Sen. John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, has announced that despite exceptional demand, educational loans are still available for the 1995-'96 academic year. The MassPLAN program, administered by the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority (MEFA), is designed for middle-income families who do not receive sufficient financial aid from traditional sources and who need help financing college costs.

"This is good news for middle-income families that are still trying to finance college costs for the coming school year. Massachusetts has many outstanding colleges and universities and I am pleased that the MassPLAN program may provide the assistance needed to gain access to these institutions," said Sen. O'Brien.

The MassPLAN has generous loan limits and lets you borrow up to the full cost of attendance. The payments are $9.90 a month per $1,000 borrowed, spread over 15 years. The interest rate is 7.95 percent and is fixed for the life of the

The MassPLAN has no application fees or federal restrictions. The program is offered directly to parents and students nationwide and is available at 58 participating Massachusetts colleges and universities. The MassPLAN also offers a home mortgage option, which may allow the interest paid on the loan to be tax deductible. This could mean substantial savings for homeowners depending on the amount borrowed.

Peter Mazareas, executive director of the authority, said, "The MassPLAN is the best college-financing option available, and responds to a family's need for an affordable, straightforward way to plan and pay for college. Because we are not-for-profit and use low-cost, tax-exempt financing, we pass the savings on the families in the form of the lowest interest rate loan available."

Historical Society has 2 summer programs

By the staff of the Andover Historical Society

Looking for late August enjoyment? Join the Andover Historical Society, Andovers Historical Museum and Research Center, for two programs. On Wednesday, Aug. 23, Joan Ellis will demonstrate "Food from Nature" at the noontime program; and on Tuesday evening, Aug. 29, view Ballardvale with Tim Barash.

Ms. Ellis of Fosters Pond, an artist, plans to tell about the joys of collecting edible wild food. She was a student of Thelma Godding, a local expert, and knows the "whys" and "whereabouts" of blackberries, blueberries and elderberries; hickory and butter nuts and black walnuts; and safe, tasty mushrooms and puffballs.

Mr. Barash will begin at the Ballardvale railroad station (T stop) at 6:30 p.m., weather permitting.

From the railroad tracks one is provided with a glimpse of a mid-19th century planned mill village: the river, railroad, factories, houses, churches and shops.

Wear comfortable walking shoes and plan to walk for 90 minutes uphill and downhill to see the "Vale."

Andover Historical Museum and Research Center is at 97 Main St. Call 475-226 for information and program admission fees.

DCS Concert Series swings to a close

The Department of Community Services Summer Concert Series will end with a performance by The Swing Legacy at The Park bandstand Wednesday, Aug. 23.

The Swing Legacy sextet, led by pianist Henry "thins" Francis, aims to "present and perpetuate the repertoire, polish, and hot, smooth rhythmic pulse of the great black bands of the swing era (1934-1945) and to recall the days when jazz was danceable and popular," organizers said.

The Swing Legacy fills a gap in the stylistic spectrum of currently active jazz ensembles - between the New Orleans/Dixieland bands and the "modern" groups (bebop and beyond).

The music of The Swing Legacy is great dancing music, from cheek-to-cheek foxtrots to hot jump numbers for jitter-bugs.

In the event of rain the concert will be held Thursday.

SHELTERING NIGHT

Those who are able to cast away the fear that accompanies the darkness of night are rewarded with a mystery, beauty, and romanticism that all but completely allude the sunlit day. If we inhabit the same world at night as during the day, what is it about the darkness that makes it seem as though we are inhabiting two different worlds? Or is it the exalting separation from the tumults of life, that veiling of the world in which, for the soul, nothing remains but souls?

Death is a natural part of life, but most people look upon death as they look upon darkness: it represents a completely different world. How each of us perceives death is affected by the accumulation of loss-related experiences we have had in our lifetime. If you experience a death in the family, you will need to rely on someone who can help you through this difficult period. When that time comes, contact BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200. We are located at 390 North Main Street. A non-sectarian home, we are happy to design services to suit your family's personal beliefs.

QUOTE: "In her slaty shade of dim and solitary loveliness, I learn the language of another world."

William Walsh Jr.

Air Force major was an AHS football star

William Walsh Jr., 36, died Sunday, Aug. 13, in Dover, Del. He suffered a massive stroke on Friday, Aug. 11.

Maj. Walsh was stationed at Dover Air Force Base as a Special Operations navigator in the 9th Airlift Squadron.

"He was an outstanding officer and really well-liked," said Capt. Teresa Connor, chief of public affairs at Dover. "He had an up-and-coming career. He was the kind of guy people liked to do things for because he did so much for others." She said Maj. Walsh was scheduled to leave for Wright Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio this fall to become a logistician.

The Andover sports community was reportedly in shock when it heard the news of the outstanding 1970s legend known as "The Moose."

"The Moose? Oh, God. I'm heartbroken," said his former Andover High football coach, Richard Collins, calling from his daughter's home in Dallas, Texas. "He was a wonderful, wonderful kid. A prince of a kid. The whole family is wonderful."

Maj. Walsh graduated from Andover High School in 1977. He was an offensive guard on Andover's second Super Bowl team, which won the Division II state championship two years in a row. He was captain in 1976, the year a 40-game winning streak finally ended. He was also a star in winter and spring track.

Mr. Collins said Andover Football Boosters had planned to dedicate this year's activities to the winning 1976 team on its 20th anniversary.

"In light of this, we may change our plans," in favor of a dedication to Maj. Walsh, he said.

"Moose was a hero to us, definitely considered a leader in sports circles in town," said James Arnold of Methuen, a teammate of Maj. Walsh. "He is a legend in terms of his dedication. In the hot days of August when we were training, Moose would take on extra work. You could see him pushing a seven-man blocking sled across the field all by himself."

Maj. Walsh went on to star on Norwich University's football team.

Maj. Walsh is the son of William F. and Eileen Walsh Sr. of 109 High St. Mr. Walsh Sr. was a driving force in Andover Junior Football, Mr. Collins said.

Gary Coon

The Legislature didn't fully fund Gov. Weld's cabinet secretariats for the entire fiscal year in this year's budget, and told the governor that to continue funding, the administration had to come back at the beginning of November with a reorganization plan for state government.

"That was a provision of the overall budget," he said.

So Gov. Weld and Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci have begun a three-month study on how to downsize the state bureaucracy. Lt. Gov. Cellucci will be in Lawrence Thursday, Aug. 31, for a series of discussions with residents and local business.

"They're looking to tap into the genius of the citizens as to ways to improve the way state government operates in Massachusetts," Rep. Coon said.

According to Rep. Coon, the administration is looking at some substantial cutting, including reducing the number of cabinet secretaries from 11 to four. It also is studying deregulation in several areas and asking, "Should we be doing it at all?" and "How can we do it better?"

"This is something that interests me because of my business-school background and having been involved in small business," Rep. Coon said.

But he doesn't yet have specific recommendations for where to make the cuts and reductions.

"I'll very likely have some that I would propose," he said, including the cutting of cabinet secretariats. "Let's wait. The first order of business is to hear from the citizens and the business community. I want to hear some of their input. I certainly don't have all the answers. I think this is going to be an ongoing procedure for the foreseeable future."

Reducing the sales tax

Rep. Coon last week challenged Gov. Weld to work a reduction of the state sales tax into the plans to downsize. He supports an initiative petition for the 1996 state ballot to phase out and reduce certain parts of the sales tax.

"I wanted to tie that into this effort."

Reducing or eliminating the sales tax would be pro-business and pro-consumer, especially in the Merrimack Valley, which is so close to New Hampshire, noted Rep. Coon.

"Eventually, I'd like to see it eliminated altogether."

The Massachusetts sales tax now costs citizens approximately $2.5 billion a year, according to the Department of Revenue. The initiative petition as proposed would cut state revenues by $1.459 billion over three years.

It would do away with the meals portion of the sales tax in 1997, saving consumers $350 million, equivalent to 2 percent of the state budget, according to its proponents. In 1998 the sales tax for motor vehicles would be eliminated, a cost of $349 million and another 2 percent of the budget. In 1999 the remaining sales tax would be reduced from the current 5 percent to 3 percent, a cost of $760 million or 4.5 percent of the current budget.

"I think that's a good stretch for their downsizing effort," Rep. Coon said.

But again, Rep. Coon didn't have a specific proposal of his own for how the state would make up for that nearly $1.5 billion in lost revenues.

"First of all, I think it's the right thing to do from a policy standpoint. Then we should look for ways to improve the efficiency of state government. I think that's why we're going to tap into the genius of the citizens."

Rep. Coon said a 3 percent sales tax was instituted as a "temporary tax" in the 1960s by then-Gov. John Volpe. It was increased to 5 percent by the Dukakis administration.

"To me - 30 years later - that's stretching the concept of 'temporary' pretty far," Rep. Coon said.

Changes in attitude

Rep. Coon said the state budget went from $12.9 billion in 1990 to $16.8 billion today. When he was elected in 1990, the state was broke, the budget was in chaos and legislators had to scramble to find ways to reduce spending. The renewed growth is a sign of government headed in a bad direction on Beacon Hill, he said.

"Right now on Beacon Hill, the sense you get is that there's no visible crisis on the horizon," Rep. Coon said.

His colleagues are starting to "slip back into some of the bad habits," including adding new programs and spending once again, he said.

"My feeling is that, in this era of rapid change, complacency is the enemy."

In the private sector, companies have become more focused on core competitiveness, building on their strengths to remain competitive. They are more agile and flexible. They've "delayed" in terms of levels of bureaucracy and have restructured to be able to respond to changing conditions of their competitive environment, Rep. Coon said. These adjectives don't exactly describe the current state of state government in Massachusetts, he said.

"Other state governments are going to recognize this and change accordingly. And if we don't do likewise in Massachusetts, we're going to be playing catch-up, and that's always more painful."

Legislative pay raises

Legislators, in a lame-duck session following the 1994 state elections, voted themselves a 55 percent pay increase, boosting their pay from $30,000 to $46,400 a year. In addition, Rep. Coon receives a $15,000 annual bonus for serving as assistant minority whip in the House.

"That might be on the ballot" in 1996, Rep. Coon said.

An initiative petition being proposed would reduce the legislative session to six months instead of a full year, and in doing so would cut legislative pay in half. The additional pay for those legislators serving in leadership positions would not be addressed specifically in the bill, but it would go the way of the base pay if the session were cut in half, Rep. Coon said.

"I voted against the pay increase last year. I wasn't necessarily opposed to the concept of adjusting the compensation, since it had been the same for quite a number of years," and the cost of living had obviously risen. "However, I can remember precious little discussion of that issue prior to the election."

"To have it brought up right after the election with very little public input, during a lame-duck session, I thought was completely inappropriate."

And most of those actively involved in the initiative petition weren't upset by the increase, but at the manner in which it was done, Rep. Coon said.

"Any change in compensation shouldn't take place in a lame-duck session."

Many positive ideas could have come out of a discussion of the pay increase, Rep. Coon said.

• Legislators only pay 15 percent of their health-care costs. "Perhaps that could have been adjusted upward" to perhaps 25 percent, he said.

• Legislators receive a per-diem rate for driving into the Statehouse. "In my case it's $9 a day."

"My feeling is that most people don't get paid (in addition) to their salary for driving to work everyday. Perhaps that could have been eliminated."

• Along with the salary increase, the legislators were given an increase in their monthly office budget to pay for things such as postage. In Rep. Coon's case, his office stipend went from $200 to $300.

His phones, an unlimited supply of letterhead and several other services don't come out of that money. He suggested the state could place a limit on the supplies after which they would have to be paid for.

"My guess is that most legislators could still get by on $200."

But that doesn't mean Rep. Coon doesn't use the money he's receiving.

"I end up spending it. But I can't say it's necessarily in the most efficient way possible. If you charged for the letterhead and all that, I guess I'd find a way to fit it into that budget."

These are the types of issues legislators could have addressed if there had been public discussion of pay raises, he said.

Train whistles

"The most satisfying thing about this whole issue is that this has been a grass-roots effort," Rep. Coon said, "a good example of active citizenship."

A three-year effort by residents to stop trains from blowing whistles in town culminated last month in Gov. Weld signing, as part of the state budget, a law banning the whistle blowing. Whistles were scheduled to stop blowing this week, according to the town manager.

But now the federal government is threatening in the next two years to nullify state laws across the country, including Andover's, banning the whistle blowing.

"I think they're swimming against the tide in terms of the fact that there's a strong momentum in the country to return power to the individual from the big brother government on the federal level," said Rep. Coon.

"They're going to get a lot of negative reactions from the citizens who are their employers. I think the federal government may get some reminder as to who works for whom."

Rep. Coon compared it to the battle over Welfare reform being waged between Massachusetts and Washington. Legislators here are trying to convince Washington to allow the state to implement reform in the way they believe would work best for this state, Rep. Coon said.

He said he has talked with Gov. Weld about the Welfare issue, told the governor he has the stronger hand and encouraged him to hold his ground against President Clinton on this issue.

said. "To me it would appear unlikely that that school will be open on the 7th."

Thomas Meyers, teachers union president, told the committee that AHS construction workers said to him there's no way the building will be ready. He suggested school officials should begin considering a long-term plan such as using double sessions at the middle schools for AHS classes.

Earlier in the day Mr. Meyers told a reporter, "I'll bet my paycheck, (Andover High neighbor) Mark (Anderson's) paycheck and your paycheck the High School won't be ready."

Despite these worries, at least two members of the building committee are maintaining that all schools will be ready Sept. 7. However, both members also said they have not been updated since last Thursday's meeting.

The new science wing at Andover High School, set to open after February vacation, will be a key addition to the school.

'I'll bet my paycheck ... the High School won't be ready.'

Tom Meyers, president of the teachers union

"People should not worry," said Susan Jenkins, building committee member. "I really do mean that. We're doing everything humanly possible to make sure school will be open on (Sept. 7). It looks a lot worse than it really is. "If it is delayed it will only be a couple of days."

With only three weeks left until the scheduled opening, the High School appears to the untrained eye to be in tough shape. Road work still needs to be completed and a portion of wall is missing from the front of the building.

Students will use a new entrance at Andover High School once construction is complete. It's next to the Dunn Gymnasium entrance.

Michael Parsons, committee member, visited the school during last weekend. "I saw mud, I saw dust, I saw a lot of work going on," he said. "It doesn't look like things are going to get there but I'm sure they will. The project does seem to be going well considering we're in a private battle with the contractor."

Ms. Jenkins said the High School contractor was given a punch list of things to do to make sure the school will open on time.

"It's the architects' and our project manager's judgment that that's a doable list," said Ms. Jenkins.

To complete this list, the contractor must make sure students are able to use areas such as stairways and the cafeteria. The old science laboratories must still be functional so students will have access to materials such as gas for their Bunsen burners.

The new science wing, along with the new seat-less gymnasium, is not expected to be ready until after February vacation.

Although some members were concerned workers would not be able to put down a floor in the South gymnasium, Ms. Jenkins said the floor will be installed this week. South students will not have access to the media center during the first few weeks of school and will use the same brown-bag lunch program they did at the end of last year.

An interview with Andover's state representative

fic enforcement for road details.

"That is what my understanding was, that cities and towns had the ability to implement police details on the local level," Rep. Coon said. "To me that makes sense. Right now they have the ability to work on the local level with what they feel is appropriate."

Mandatory blood testing

Rep. Coon didn't have an opinion of a proposed bill that would make blood testing mandatory for all operators involved in serious motor vehicle accidents.

"I haven't had a chance to review that yet."

The bill is aimed at making sure drunk drivers are prosecuted.

Raytheon/manufacturing incentives

The Merrimack Valley legislative caucus was prepared to include a number of manufacturing incentives in the state budget this year, but was asked to hold off by Raytheon Co. officials, according to Rep. Coon. Raytheon, which employs more than 5,000 people in Andover and is the state's largest employer, last year said it might move out of the state if it couldn't reduce the cost of doing business in Massachusetts. But Raytheon officials were still looking at various proposals and were not ready to go to the Legislature, Rep. Coon said. He said the company is now ready to move ahead and is working with Merrimack Valley legislators to do so.

"There are ongoing discussions" regarding proposals for reforms and incentives that will focus on manufacturing across the state, he said.

Leadership

Rep. Coon, as assistant minority whip in the House, has the opportunity to meet and talk with Gov. Weld and his top administrators and staff every week. He said he thinks that contact is good for his constituents in Andover and Lawrence and for the Merrimack Valley.

"I'm pleased that we have someone from the Merrimack Valley on the leadership team. I think it's helpful. I'm able to press our case as a region in these meetings with the governor and the lieutenant governor and their staff."

District office

Rep. Coon opened a new office above the old Townsmen office on N. Main St. this past January.

"I pay for it through my campaign account."

There is no state funding for district offices, he said.

He tries to spend every Friday in the district office, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and local residents are starting to expect him to be there.

"People are starting to pop in."

"I think technology wise, we're better equipped here than we are at the Statehouse," Rep. Coon said.

He has a facsimile machine that is turned on 24 hours a day, a separate phone line and a computer with a scanner and a laser printer. But he is not yet hooked up to the Internet.

"That's one of my goals by the end of the year, to be up and running on the Internet so that people can send e-mail."

His Statehouse office is even further behind in technology. A couple of years ago he bought his own computer because the Statehouse didn't have computers. The state is now installing computers in the offices, and Rep. Coon hopes his will be equipped before the end of the year. Residents can already communicate with the governor's office by e-mail, he said.

"By the end of this year we should be able to do some of these kinds of things."

But he finds it ironic that a state that is supposed to be on the leading edge of technology is only now installing computers in its offices.

"We're living in the Stone Age in terms of technology at the Statehouse," he said.

People have become accustomed to having a rapid response to questions and requests, and to being able to access information themselves, and it must be frustrating to those people not to have government information quickly available.

As far as the cost of computers in the Statehouse is concerned, Rep. Coon said the price tag has to be compared to the resulting increase in efficiency.

"The payback doesn't take very long," he predicted.

'People think we're going to steal'

If you're an adult, then it means you once were a 13-year-old kid. And that means you can be sympathetic with Amanda Hitchins, the 13-year-old who wrote the letter on the next page about suspicious shopkeepers.

"Just because we are teen-agers doesn't mean we're going to steal or break the rules," she wrote.

She says that someone at the library and shopkeepers downtown act as if she's going to take something.

If you're an adult who owns or manages a shop then you can and should tell kids like Amanda that people do shoplift from your store, that that raises the price of staying in business, and that it tends to make you suspicious of teens, who, statistics show, often are the ones who steal from stores.

This is the kind of problem that really can't be solved. It's the kind of problem about which most of us can see both sides.

Last January during a Project Teamwork open forum at Andover High School, some students complained about the attitude toward them by downtown shopkeepers. The kids said they usually are required to leave their backpacks outside of the stores, and even then they sometimes feel unwelcome.

At the time several people and this newspaper suggested that shopkeepers and kids get together and talk about the problem. That hasn't happened, and we still think it would be a valuable exchange.

But for now, we ask both the adults and the kids involved in the problem to try to understand the other side. Neither position is unreasonable. It's the same old problem: A few make things difficult for many.

Feeding an interest in World War II

By Perry Colmore

Ask anyone who knows me well. I am not a war person. I really don't know that much about the wars this country has fought, and I am one of those people who doesn't feel comfortable around guns. In fact, I made the mistake of banning all toy guns from my house when my son expressed interest in guns when he was 2 or so. I found out he'd make a gun out of anything — a stick or a baseball bat, for instance — and that it was useless to make such a big deal of being anti-gun.

Nevertheless, I have been on a World War II kick for the last few months. It all started when my husband and I started reading together Doris Kearns Goodwin's Pulitzer-prize winning book, No Ordinary Time. It's the story of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt in the years leading up to and including World War II. It's easy to see why it won a Pulitzer. Ms. Goodwin skillfully leads her reader through a fascinating time in history. She gives the reader a chance to get to know both Roosevelts while painlessly learning history.

I am sure I learned some World War II facts during various American history courses I've taken, but I had forgotten that wide lapels were out during the war, a casualty to this nation's attempt to save fabric that needed to be used to make soldiers' uniforms. For the same reason, skirts above the knees became fashionable as the United States was entering the war. And did you know that in an effort to collect scrap rubber, which was desperately needed for tank treads and truck tires, the country asked its citizens to bring all scrap rubber to drop-off centers? The request included old tires, rubber balls and rubber bands, as well as girdles, which contain rubber. But Ms. Goodwin writes that women convinced the powers-that-be that a woman wouldn't be able to stand all day long in an assembly line without the support of a girdle. (Today a woman would say she couldn't stand — or sit — all day in a girdle, which would restrict the flow of blood.)

The book is full of interesting details. It also offers the reader a chance to get to know Winston Churchill and other world leaders. The White House during the Roosevelt years was more like a salon than a home for the president and his family. The first couple's quarters were filled and overflowing with friends who moved in for weeks at a time, often receiving the president at night in his room in his underwear to talk about the status of the war.

Of course we hear all about America's becoming involved in the war.

By the time we'd finished the book, I wanted to know more about World War II, so we rented some tapes from Memorial Hall Library: The Home Front, broadcasts by William Williams during the same period that give a feel for the culture as well as the news of the time. I recommend the tapes.

Then I moved on to another set of tapes from the library: John Hersey's Hiroshima, which I'd read in high school. It meant a lot more to me today, on the 50th anniversary of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

From there, I checked out from the library Studs Terkel's 1984 book, The Good War, which is an oral history of World War II. I've just begun this one, but it's easy to read and full of people's testimonies about the war.

Also during this time I was reading Pat Conroy's recently-released best-seller: Beach Music. It has a couple of entries about the Holocaust, probably the most brutal accounts

Not all teen-agers steal or break the law

Editor, Townsmen:

This is the first summer I have really been spending a lot of time downtown. I've been shopping there with my friends and going to the library without my mother there. I really like the independence, but I am beginning to feel uncomfortable going into stores.

I was in the library the other day and I was fishing around in my backpack for my house key. I glanced behind me, and one of the librarians was staring at me from the desk like I was doing something completely awful.

Then a few days ago I was getting a present for my friend at [a local gift shop]. While I was waiting in line I picked a pair of sunglasses and tried them on. I noticed one of the girls that worked there watching me like I was going to steal them. I've noticed this kind of treatment in other stores, too.

Just because we are teen-agers doesn't mean we're going to steal or break the rules. Some do, but that doesn't mean all of us do. So to anybody that works in a store downtown, try to give your teen-age customers a little more respect.

Thank you.

Shocked that Phillips Academy accepted cigarette money

Editor, Townsmen:

I was surprised and shocked to learn that Phillips Academy has accepted a grant award from Phillip Morris in the amount of $200,000. This represents "selling out" at its lowest level.

Phillip Morris stands as a leader of longstanding in efforts to promote poisoning of young people by marketing tobacco to them. They specifically market to young people and minorities to peddle their toxins to the most vulnerable among us. To add insult to injury (and a touch of the ironic), the grant is specifically restricted to efforts to recruit minority participation in the teaching profession. This is troubling in a number of ways:

1. The message to support a corporation fully invested in supplying a harmful substance to young people and minorities, not to mention addicted adults, is inconsistent with Phillips' reputation for a high quality of education and moral values.

2. Phillips does not need the money. They have a very affluent source of donors from their alumni as well as one of the country's most heavily supported endowment.

3. Unlike other charities that accept "blood money," like Phillip Morris, Phillips isn't a small needy group that will otherwise go without support. Phillip Morris has made a special effort to infect young people because they are a cost-effective investment in the future of tobacco sales. Are we willing to sell our lives and the lives of our children to fund a "smoke screen"? Phillip Morris has also made special efforts to market to minorities. This project is especially hypocritical, allowing PM a foothold in an area where they most want to make an impact.

4. How is this in keeping with an image of mental health and self-esteem to support a company that funds poor self-image and chemical dependency?

5. The argument, "if we don't take the money someone else will," doesn't hold water. There will always be a market for harmful substances. Tobacco is much more costly and deadly than "street drugs." Will Phillips support heroin sales and prostitution next year? This is plain greed.

When we moved to Andover a year ago, we made a significant commitment to the local economy. We did so, largely because Andover is a smoke-free island. Coming from the West Coast, I am still amazed when I see people from all socioeconomic strata walking down the street with cigarettes hanging out of their mouths. I am especially downheartened when I see a young person.

New England is one of the last bastions of smoking and Phillips has identified itself on the other side of the fight for good health. When we decided to move to Andover, I was told that having the academy in the town was a great cultural asset. I'd trade in a few free concerts anytime for a moral commitment to good healthy behavior. Shame on you, Phillips.

Figuring out the Dead

Editor, Townsmen:

This is not a passionate letter. This letter will not passionately defend any political position or a neighbor's property line, nor will it give opinion to environmental issues or youth center. However, I would like to share the unusual nature of this day.

Today Jerry Garcia passed away. Indicative of the times, there were sound bites from Washington, D.C., to San Francisco where it all began (it being the Grateful Dead). What made this day so unusual was the wide range of news that happened today.

The passing of Jerry Garcia was among the top news stories of the day... along with the shooting death of a young immigrant woman in Cambridge... along with the decision to place a memorial in Boston at the hotel where nine firefighters lost their lives fighting a blaze.

Today, Gov. Weld was sharing his feelings over the loss of Jerry Garcia, actually considering lowering the flags to half staff in Jerry's memory.

Today, Heather Kahn hailed Dick Albert "a hero" because the weather has been so nice... after she had just reported on the memorial for the firefighters.

Tonight, driving home from the mall, the DJ on the radio was delighted to play Grateful Dead tunes, almost celebrating the death of Jerry Garcia, calling it a "special occasion."

At the mall I purchased a CD. I commented to the clerk that I had great respect for Jerry Garcia, but I couldn't see making him a hero. The clerk sincerely and from the heart explained that Jerry Garcia kept the hippie movement alive. (I responded, Thank God!)

Listening to Gov. Weld warmly remember Jerry Garcia because Jerry approached life and music in a "mellow" way truly struck me oddly. Jerry Garcia, a man addicted to heroin, who smoked, drank and whatever until his heart gave out, is now remembered for his mellow approach to life.

It seems that great men fall because we look for human foibles to weaken them, and then not-so-great men who we made icons in spite of their habits become "legends" because they have passed on.

A strange day for me to be sure. I do have great respect for Jerry Garcia's gifts to the music world. So today, at the mall, I decided to buy some music. So I bought a CD of piano and orchestra works composed by Rachmaninoff.

One person's update on incinerator issue

Editor, Townsmen:

In order to help area residents to stay abreast of the incinerator issue, I offer this time line of recent events:

March, 1995: Haverhill Mayor James Rurak urges the City Council to enter into a new 20-year contract with trash giant Ogden-Martin. Contract to include a 50-percent expansion in capacity at the site, as well as the burning of 250 tons per day of sewage sludge from several communities.

March 21 and 28, 1995: Concerned citizens and local environmental groups protest the hasty acceptance of the Ogden-Martin proposal.

March 28, 1995: Haverhill City Council votes 6-2 to enter into the new contract. (One councillor urges more time for public comment before voting to sign the contract.)

April 1995: Mayor Rurak appoints Gene Grillo, Ph.D. (member of the negotiating committee for the contract), to the Haverhill Board of Health.

May 25, 1995: The public is informed that the Board of Health will meet on June 6 to consider Ogden-Martin's request for a "clarification" of the 1988 site assignment. The board would be asked to "clarify" that the 1988 site assignment included the burning of sewage sludge.

June 6, 1995: Bowing to strong pressure from local environmental groups, Ogden Haverhill Associates and the Board of Health postpone discussion of the "clarification" until June 27.

June 6-27, 1995: Lawyers representing citizens' groups alert the Board of Health to the fact that Ogden-Martin's proposed changes require that the company go through the entire process of applying for a new site assignment, then file all necessary permit applications with the Mass. Department of Environmental Protection. (Public hearings will be an integral part of the siting and permitting processes.)

June 20, 1995: Ogden-Martin announces that the company will withdraw its request for clarification of the existing site assignment. One newspaper states that Ogden-Martin officials "have decided to skip seeking approval from the city Board of Health to burn sludge. Instead, they will go directly to the state DEP for permission..." (Regional Digest, Eagle-Tribune, 6/20/95).

Public hearings will be held in Haverhill. But this is a regional issue! Emissions from the plant do not stop at the Haverhill border. You are breathing them now. I hope to see all of you at the public hearings.

World War II

about that subject I've ever read.

Now my husband and I are reading together, Truman, by David McCullough, also a Pulitzer-prize winner. We aren't very far into the book, and I admit that for the first several pages I was disappointed in the amount of detail about Harry Truman's childhood. I found some of that part boring and too detailed. It's definitely a biography, where Ms. Goodwin's book about the Roosevelts is a story about a period in history. As Harry Truman gets older, Mr. McCullough's book is more meaningful to me.

[By the way, Doris Kearns Goodwin will speak in Andover next year, during the town's 350th celebration.]

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.
SCIATICA

Sciatica, a back disorder that usually strikes in middle age, is so named because it involves the sciatic nerve. In fact, there is a group of nerves (the body's longest) bound in one nerve sheath that extends from the lower back through the buttock and thigh to the knee, where it branches into the foot. Thus, when the nerve becomes irritated, pain may arise deep in the buttock, in the thigh, or radiate all the way to the feet. The cause of nerve irritation may either be a herniated disc or an inflamed piriformis muscle in the buttocks. This muscle that allows the leg to be lifted sideways may become inflamed due to injury or overexertion. In some cases, however, it only takes one "wrong" bend or slight turn of the body to initiate an attack. The chiropractor's goal is to put the body right.

At DeLorenzo Chiropractic Group, we are educated and trained in the detection and care of problems affecting the spinal column. Many cases of sciatica lend themselves to effective correction through a program of chiropractic care. We're located at 15 Central Street, where we can provide a complete examination and recommendations for care appropriate to your case. Please call 475-5042 to schedule an appointment and start feeling better.

P.S. Repetitive lifting and constant exposure to mechanical vibrations (such as those felt in the driver's seat of a truck) have been known to cause sciatica.

Four finalists named for Bancroft's head spot

By Neil Fater

An Andover woman is one of four Massachusetts educators being considered by Dick Neal, superintendent of schools, to replace Debra Dunn as principal of Bancroft School.

Parents can meet the four principal finalists today, Thursday, and tomorrow — although they may already know east-Andover resident Jacqueline A. Kearns. Mr. Neal said he will interview the four finalists this week.

The four finalists are Ms. Kearns, a Burlington principal; Norah M. McCarthy, Lawrence's director of academics; Maureen

E. Dwan, a Topsfield principal; and Johnna Lynne Stinson, principal of a K-8 school in Brookline.

A different finalist will meet with parents at Bancroft at 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. both Thursday and Friday.

Here's a brief look at each of the candidates:

• Ms. Kearns is principal of Burlington's Memorial Elementary School, a K-5 school of approximately 400 students and 45 staff members. She has been principal there since 1993 and was assistant principal of Lunenburg's Turkey Hill Middle school from 1992 to 1993.

From 1979 until 1992 she was a reading and study-skills specialist for the Arlington schools.

Ms. Kearns received both her master's and bachelor's degrees from Purdue University.

She enjoys gardening and traveling.

• Ms. McCarthy, of Lawrence, has been the director of academics in Lawrence since 1994. From 1986 until 1994 she was principal of the Henry K. Oliver School.

She received her master's in education from the University of Lowell in 1978 and her bachelor's degree from Lowell State College in 1969.

Ms. McCarthy has been a member of the American Cancer Society's board of directors since 1991.

• Ms. Dwan, of Lynnfield, has been principal of the Steward School in Topsfield since 1992. She was a first- and second-grade teacher there prior to that promotion.

Judge: Motorist not responsible in police motorcycle crash

By Don Staruk

The woman motorist involved in an accident that injured Andover police motorcycle officer Robert Cronin last December was found not responsible for that crash by a Lawrence District Court judge last week.

Judge James Geary found Georgina Lane, 74, of 13 Bartlet St., "not responsible" for making the improper left turn that police allege caused the crash.

"I felt that we more than proved our case," Officer Cronin said this week. "I was really outraged by the judge's decision."

Officer Cronin said he has had several calls from fellow officers who are concerned that, when they are responding to a situation in which people may need some help, "it's open season" on the officers.

"That's what the decision said," Officer Cronin said.

"We're all very disappointed, obviously, in the system," said Sgt. Barbara Connolly, who investigated the accident for the department.

"We're looking at the possibility of an appeal," said Lt. Phillip Froburg, operations commander. "We think the judge certainly made a wrong decision."

Police have asked Tom Urbelis, town counsel, to explore whether there is any recourse for an appeal of Judge Geary's finding. But two officials at Lawrence District Court, who asked not to be named, said that is unlikely. Only the civilian involved in a civil case, which this was, can appeal the judge's decision and only on a point of law, they said.

Officer Cronin, 39, was injured Dec. 8, 1994, while responding from the police station to assist with an accident in Shaw-sheen Square. He was going past the north entrance to the Washington Park Apartments, near 235 N. Main St., with his blue light flashing and his siren on when a car coming in the opposite direction driven by Ms. Lane attempted to take a left into the apartment complex, cutting him off.

Officer Cronin braked, but both he and the bike struck the rear end of the 1984 Cadillac. He flew over the trunk in the air traveling about 30 feet before landing on his back in the road. He suffered two broken wrists, a small cut on the back of his head, bruises on his arms and a black eye, and has not yet returned to work. He recently had two operations to correct the function of the thumb on his right hand. He has predicted his return to work several times in the past few months, but because of the recurring problems with his thumb, is no longer predicting when he'll be back.

"I've been so disappointed that I don't even want to say it," he said this week.

Ms. Lane and her passenger, Margaret Saunders, 73, of 100C Washington Park, were not injured.

Ms. Lane testified in the hearing that

Andover Blue baseball finishes third in Pony League tourney

By Rick Harrison

The 1995 season ended a couple games too soon for the Andover Blue baseball team, as the locals were bounced from the double-elimination Suburban Pony League Tournament with a 9-2 semifinal round loss to the North Andover Knights last week at Milk Street Veterans Field in Methuen.

Blue, seeded No. 5 at the start of the eight-team tourney, finished third.

AB opened with a pair of strong wins over intra-town arch-rival Andover Gold (5-1) and the same North Andover team (4-1).

But the Lowell Police rallied in the bottom of the sixth to score five runs and thrust Blue into the loser's bracket, 8-4, and the Knights then had their revenge in the semifinal.

The loss left Blue, coached by Kevin Rourke and Rick Peterson, with a final overall record of 11-7-4 including 2-2 in the tournament.

Lowell, 4-0 tourney and 17-4-1 overall, won the title by edging North Andover (4-2 tourney, 19-5 overall) by a 3-2 score in the championship game.

North Andover Knights, 9 Andover Blue 2

Blue never seemed to get untracked in this game, managing just four hits for the second straight contest and pushing across single runs in the fifth and sixth after falling behind 7-0.

NA right-hander Ryan Grasso threw a complete game against Andover, striking out six and walking five.

Blue righty John Hogan, who went the distance in the earlier 4-1 conquest of the Knights, pitched three innings and was touched for eight hits and seven runs (five earned) while fanning five and walking one.

Left-hander Ben Gibson mopped up with three solid innings of relief, holding North Andover hitless while whiffing three and walking two.

The Knights took advantage of the fourth and fifth Blue errors of the game to push across a pair of unearned runs against Gibson in the bottom of the sixth.

Defending SPL champ North Andover, the regular season North Division titlist, laced four hits and bolted to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. The Knights added three more runs on three safeties in the third before Gibson slammed the door.

Blue spoiled Grasso's shutout bid in the fifth when Tim Witman walked and raced home on Jeff Cutler's double to left.

With two outs in the Andover sixth, Matt Antaya walked and Hogan ripped an RBI two-bagger to the left-center field gap.

Blue squandered a golden opportunity to climb back into contention when it was still 4-0 in the top of the third.

The locals loaded the bases with two outs after Witman walked. Cutler beat out an infield single and Gibson was hit by a pitch.

Grasso escaped the jam by getting the next batter on a comebacker to the mound.

Cutler finished with two of Blue's four safeties, Hogan doubled and Gibson legged out an infield single in the second.

Tim Clough was the big hitter for North Andover with a two-run double in the first and a run-scoring double in the third.

Blue stat leaders

Ben Gibson finished the season as Blue's top hitter with a .500 batting average, on 24-for-48.

He was also team-high in doubles (5), home runs (2), walks (13), runs batted in (26) and on-base percentage (.625).

Also posting impressive batting averages were Aron Belloradio (.393 on 24-for-61), Rob Oppenheim (.361 on 22-for-61), Troy LoRusso (.333 on 4-for-12), Mark Rocca (.295 on 13-for-44) and Scott Peterson (.288 on 15-for-52).

The team batting average was .280.

Oppenheim was tops in runs scored (24), stolen bases (22) and was second among the regulars in on-base percentage (.458).

Belloradio collected 16 RBI, Jeff Cutler 13 and Peterson 13.

Cutler belted two triples while Gibson, Oppenheim and Peterson had one each.

Ethan Murphy stole 10 bases and Ryan Hannigan had six sacrifice hits.

Pitching

The bulk of the pitching was done by John Hogan, Charles Daher and Ben Gibson.

Hogan was 6-4 with one save. In 50.2 innings he allowed 42 hits, struck out 41, walked 18 and posted a 3.71 earned run average.

Daher was 2-2. In 40 innings he yielded 45 hits, fanned 23, walked 26 and chalked up a 3.33 ERA.

Gibson went 2-0. In 23.1 innings he surrendered 22 hits, struck out 22, walked 24 and had a team-best 1.52 ERA.

Road race planned to benefit Global Outreach

Lahey Hitchcock's Sports Medicine Department will sponsor its third annual road race Sunday, Sept. 17, to benefit Global Outreach. "Run for their Lives" begins at Lahey Hitchcock Medical Center in Burlington at 10 a.m. and features three races for runners and walkers of all levels: a 10K run, 5K run and a 5K fun run/walk.

The global outreach program was established to assist clinic personnel with travel expenses as they reach out around the world to volunteer their time and skills to work with organizations committed to improving the health of the rural poor.

Andover Gold finishes third in division

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Gold baseball team wrapped up its 1995 campaign with a brief stay in the double-elimination Suburban Pony League Tournament.

Gold, which finished the regular season third in the North Division behind the North Andover Knights and Lowell Police, dropped consecutive tourney games to intra-town arch-rival Andover Blue (5-1) and the Wilmington Wildcats.

The double dip at Veterans Field in Methuen left AG with an 11-7-2 overall record.

Following are capsule writeups of two late-season non-tournament Gold games.

Andover Gold 9 Winthrop 6

Gold fell behind 6-0 after three innings before rallying for the come-from-behind victory at Winthrop High.

AG scored its first run in the fourth when Brendan Long singled, stole second and scored on Scott Ciruso's single.

A four-run fifth brought Andover within one at 6-5. Marty Lastrina walked, Rick Labbe singled and Steve Arsenaault laced an RBI single. A walk and wild pitch helped account for the other runs.

Gold finally took the lead in the sixth on singles by Doug Henderson, Ciruso, Matt Drizen and Lastrina (two RBI).

The final two runs crossed in the top of the seventh when Nick Branzetti doubled, Long and Henderson walked to load the bases, Ciruso was hit by a pitch to force home a run, and Long crossed on a fielder's choice.

Drizen continued his strong pitching for Gold, striking out five and walking only one.

Defensive standouts were Long at shortstop, Branzetti at first base, Ciruso behind the plate and Arsenaault at second base.

Lowell Police 19 Andover Gold 7

Visiting Lowell snapped its brief two-game losing streak by erupting for six runs in the second inning, 10 more in the third and three in the fourth at Andover High. The triumph avenged an earlier 6-1 loss to Gold.

The game was called because of darkness after five full innings.

Matt Drizen laced a pair of hits for Gold, which scored one run in the second, four in the third and two more in the fourth.

Scott Ciruso belted a two-run double, and Rick Labbe added a double, as AG managed eight hits off undefeated Lowell right-hander Eric Beauregard (4-0).

Chris Wholley was the losing pitcher for Gold.

Adam Michaud contributed a double, single and three RBI for Lowell, Dan Riley drilled a two-run single, and Derek Pollinger lashed two singles.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

TREATING YOUR FRACTURED TOOTH

In the event that a patient fractures a tooth, the situation should promptly be brought to the attention of the dentist. Even if a fractured tooth does not cause immediate pain, the trauma of an accident carries the potential to cause the eventual death of the pulp. If so, a patient's first visible sign of serious damage may be the tooth's turn toward discoloration. Once this occurs, the dentist may attempt to save the tooth by replacing its damaged nerve structure with a root canal filling. After that, the dentist may employ bonding, a laminate veneer, or a crown as a means of restoring the tooth aesthetically. Less complex fractures may be repaired simply by acid-etched bonding or contouring.

When trauma or disease strikes any tooth, it also can affect the entire mouth. Even if an injured, diseased, or out-of-positioned tooth is beyond help, your family dentist can minimize the affects on the remaining teeth. If you are new to the area and do not have a family dentist, or if it's been awhile since you've visited the dentist, we welcome your call at 475-2431, 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133 (with easy access off Rt 93). Why not get to know us before an emergency strikes? Hours are Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, & by appointment.

P.S. The pulp is the vital, living part of the tooth which contains nerves.

Town softball leagues begin playoff action

Regular season champions CP Realty Trust and the Converse All-Stars were both bounced from the Andover Coed Softball League playoffs last week, as action in that league and the Andover Men's Modified League heated up.

In the Coed League, Marshall's Muddslides upset CPRT 2-1 in their best-of-3 Gold Division semifinal series, while Contract Sources moved to the playoff championship round by sweeping past Converse 2-0 in their Blue Division title series.

The Muddslides advanced to a division final against Marshall's Magic, which ousted Dynamics Research Corporation 2-1 in the other Gold semifinal.

The Muddslides won the first game against the Magic, and the series was scheduled to conclude this week.

The best-of-5 championship finals, matching Contract Sources against either the Muddslides or Magic, has a game scheduled for tomorrow night at the Rec Park field (6:30 p.m.).

Men's Modified

In the best-of-3 quarterfinal round playoff series, Jake's swept Justin's in two straight and Red Harris squeaked past Dr. Darke 2-1 in a close and thrilling series.

The best-of-5 semifinal round playoffs match regular season champ Park Street Pub versus Red Harris and runner-up MMI Painting versus Jake's.

MMI entered the week with a 1-0 lead over Jake's, while the Park Street-Red Harris showdown was scheduled to begin earlier this week.

Park Street and Red Harris play their third game tonight at Rec Park (6:30).

Next week will either mark the conclusion of the semifinals or the beginning of the championship series.

Motorist not held responsible in local accident

she saw the motorcycle coming toward her with the lights flashing and that she thought she had time to make the turn, according to police who were at the hearing last Thursday, Aug. 10.

"I'm clueless how they came to that decision. The chain of physical evidence was unbelievable," Officer Cronin said. "I'm not saying there was any intent to hurt anybody, that's why they call it an accident, but it's still a motor-vehicle violation."

Lt. Froburg said police could have charged Ms. Lane with failure to yield to an emergency vehicle, a more serious charge, but opted not to.

"It's not a heavy violation, but I think it's an issue of responsibility for the accident," Lt. Froburg said. "Did she violate the law? Intent is not part of the case."

Lt. Froburg, Sgt. Connolly and Officer Cronin all said it doesn't matter that one of the vehicles was a police vehicle, and that no matter who was involved, the law is the same.

"Unfortunately, sometimes judges exhibit too much compassion," Lt. Froburg said.

Lt. Froburg said he was not sure what the repercussions of the judge's decision would be, but said the town and/or its insurers would likely be responsible for the costs related to the crash, including Officer Cronin's sick time, replacement of the motorcycle and other related expenses.

"I look at it like we had the overwhelming evidence," Lt. Froburg said.

Ms. Lane had an attorney at the hearing, but the town did not have a prosecutor. Sgt. Connolly said judge's hearings are usually just a meeting between the operator and the investigating officer, and that the district attorney does not provide a prosecutor in civil cases.

"It was more like a mini trial. We were cross examined" by Ms. Lane's attorney, Sgt. Connolly said.

would endorse and that's not a direction we'll be pursuing while I'm superintendent," assured Mr. Neal.

"I've seen some of her work that she's produced" in Newburyport, said Mr. Neal. "She's just demonstrated there that she's a tireless worker, works very hard, and gets results."

Mr. Neal credited Ms. McGrath with bringing Newburyport's professional development plan into focus.

Ms. McGrath was one of four finalists and one of two favored candidates during the initial superintendent search. However, when the initial search ended and Mr. Neal was prepared to make his recommendation, committee members said they did not yet feel comfortable voting on the available candidates. The committee asked Mr. Neal to look outside of the existing candidate pool and then to come back and recommend the best candidate for the position. Mr. Neal did so Tuesday night.

Ms. McGrath was unavailable for comment Wednesday. She is a doctoral candidate at Boston University and has worked in Newburyport since 1986.

Ye Loft and Ladle Restaurant

On August 26 and 27 Ye Loft and Ladle Restaurant is co-sponsoring a 3 on 3 Basketball Classic with the YMCA and in conjunction with the Pepsi Bottling Company in Methuen and New Balance of Lawrence. The street in front of the restaurant will be blocked off for this exciting event. The public is invited to play, and show off their skills, or be a spectator. Registration may be made up to, and including, the day of the event. All applicants receive free refreshments and T shirts and the winners will be awarded New Balance sneakers. All proceeds will benefit the YMCA. Ye Loft and Ladle will serve breakfast, lunch and dinner throughout the day. Please call Frank Kenneally at the YMCA for further information (508-686-6191)

Owner Lance Adie continues the tradition founded by the Adie family in 1978 for its friendly service and excellent food. Throughout its expansion during recent years, the hospitality has remained the same. Ye Loft and Ladle continues to serve their extensive and diversified menus for breakfast, lunch and dinner. In addition, 10 to 15 additional daily specials are offered. The fresh roasted turkey, beef, seafood, sandwiches, fresh seafood chowder, homemade breads and salads continue to be favorites. Watch for the new, expanded dinner menu for fall. The entire menu has been developed, prepared, and served by co-owner Ralph (Skip) Adie. All items are available for take-out.

Down Under Sports Bar continues to provide fun, fine food, beverages and great entertainment. A full bar complements the food served. There is live entertainment Thursday through Saturday nights.

A full service sidewalk cafe was added last year for the customers' enjoyment. Parties for 10 to 300 can be accommodated. Lance recommends that parties be booked now for the holiday season.

Ye Loft and Ladle is open for lunch Monday through Friday and for dinner Wednesday through Saturday. Down Under Sports Bar is open Monday through Saturday. They are located at 337 Essex Street, Lawrence.

Floranne grew up in California and a move across the country gives her a particular appreciation of the needs of the relocating family. World travel through her work experience has given Floranne a real appreciation of the benefits of living in the Andover area. She is really proud of our town and is always pleased to point out to prospective home buyers the benefits our community can offer.

Active in public service, Floranne is a Court Appointed Special Advocate, works with various political organizations and the Pike and South School PTO's. Her most recent cause is building a new playground at the South School.
